FORWARD TIMES Moves Into Tenth Year With New Ideas

The year was 1960, and to borrow a phrase from a popular song, "It was a very good year. John F. Kennedy was elected President of the United States. He was supported by a new Negro newspaper in Houston called FORWARD TIMES.

ever present, but there was eager anticipation of good things to come. The first edition of FORWARD TIMES was being written, edited, laid out, made, shot, stripped and printed and was ready for the week of January 30.

parents Mr. and Mrs. Eugene Robinson. Vernon Chambers was a FTimes columnist in those early days, so was Betsy Johnson, the Episcopians held their twentieth annual dance and Chesly Barbara Harris was photographed as FTimes "Yummy of the Week." Frank Rollins of the Rollins Jewelry Store and his wife were the subjects of a photo story and Julius Carter authored his first editorial, "Where We Stand."

All FTimes Employees Versatile

The pictures and job titles does injustice to many of our employees and we could not in all fairness, even with the printed word, tell of the many tasks performed by versatile members of the FTimes staff.

Oliver McClain, might be caught performing three or four duties in the run of a day. Harrison Nichols is often shifted from one department to another, and there is Selma Wells who really can't be described in one job title.

The same can be said of almost any member of FTimes staff. The FORWARD TIMES present staff is an unexcelled visionary combination of highly trained, experienced, understanding technical staff, working side by side scenes to guarantee a smooth operation, or to step out front in any one else's shoes in the case of emergency.

Mr. Spookman took his picture in his pocket where he had it for some time. He was in a room with a sign that said "Spookman's Room".
